Watch this stock. It could go either way...

... but I'd say it is worth the risk. Don't forget your protective stop.

omico, omico,
when shall ye depart?
to the heavenly skies, where stars twinkle in its spheres shining through thine eyes, making birds sing and think it were not night!
:lol:

Watch it closely. Eyes on the ticker.

Scan bid and ask, check volume at diff price levels, press F8, view intraday charts on the other screen, check for disclosures and local/foreign news in another screen... and listen...

When no one is looking and interest has died down, it is when it will strike.

:wink:

Here is my version of Omico song:

"OM is just too good to be true!
Can't take my eyes off you.
You'd be like heaven to trade!
Oh I wanna hold you so much!
At long last time has arrived.
And I thank God I'm alive."

"OM's just too good to be true!
Can't take my eyes off you!"

...this is my last post... lest I be accused of hyping the stock... :wink:

dscl: I have OM shares
Do trade at your own risk!

Thanks everyone!!! :D

Last Call!

For speculative traders:

1. Read the Amended 2005 Annual Report disclosed in PSE website
2. A potential Canadian investor is eyeing this project
3. Makawiwili project in Benguet has 119 mining claims over 837 hectares
4. Makawiwili Gold Mine is in the middle of Philex and Itogon Suyoc Mine
5. Google Omico Corporation, you will find a mining claims conflict case filed against Omico which they have won in the Supreme Court

To my dear fellow traders, do not mistake this as hyping given all these are public information.

I am sharing this with you in the hope that someday, we all could "TRADE FOR A LIVING!"

Happy Trading! :wink:

The moon is still rotating to reach a higher high. :wink: ... and the pot of gold is just at the end of the rainbow... so with leprechauns...

Be careful of prophecies made to entice people not to sell below a certain price... or a target price too high that it cannot be supported by its valuation...

We are chartists... and as far as I can see... price is still trading at higher highs and higher lows... :D

Be quick as there are plenty of big time players involved. Don't take your eyes off the ticker and the bid/ask for OM in the days to come.

Happy trading! Thanks everyone!

Per your request Mitch, here is another version of Omico song:

OM is Gold!!! ... Gold!!!
Always believe in your soul
You've got the power to know
Chart's indestructible...
Always believe it!

'Twas only few years ago
The stock was slowly trading at base
All left it there we could've sworn

These are our trading days
Hoping OM zooms up away! :wink:
Remember that IT'S STILL NEAR ITS BASE!!!

Now we're in love with OM.... we're in love with OM...

OM is like the right trading call
We could have it standing so tall.....

OM is gold! gold!
Glad that it's bound to regain!
There's something we could've learned!
Chart's indestructible...
Always believe it!!!

-----
How's that?... gusto mo pa-mix natin??? hahaha

http://business.inquirer.net/money/columns/view\_article.php?article\_id=54420

Bearbull article on OM

I have been intrigued by the massive turnover in Omico Mining and believe that I mentioned it in the Inquirer a few weeks ago. There is no smoke without fire, so I decided to investigate it.

Omico has been talking to claim owners for a possible joint venture or acquisition. At the same time, it has been approached by a number of foreign investors for a possible tie up.

The company is studying various proposals but is very diligent, discreet and choosy in selecting mining claims and investments partners. So it tends to move slowly and surely to ensure a higher rate of success.

The company has preserved its property assets very well. There are two joint ventures, Urdaneta with Sta. Lucia Realty and Tagaytay City with Robinson Homes, and there is a low-cost housing project in Santa Rosa, Nueva Ecija, that is developed by Omico.

Its Baguio City and Makati City projects are in the planning stage and all properties are in prime locations.

Technically, the chart looks very good. While almost every other stock has been adversely affected by the China meltdown, Omico was hardly affected and has been rising steadily in huge volume.

Support seems to be widely spread. My only comment is that the company's capital base is too small to attract foreign investors and it would be in the company's long-term interest to increase it. This is essentially a good long-term investment.

Re: OM - Omico

Posted by zotium - 2007/03/16 19:30

In my opinion, OM is bearish for now until proven bullish.. currently triangulating inside .016-.024.

Here's why i'm bearish...

On the weekly chart, the runup in early 2005 and the recent runup looks similar, and what happened in 2005 was a fallback to the base. Volume is similar, high MACD, downtrending RSI.

However, All MA's 65-230 are still in-line, so the uptrend is still intact.

If I had OM.. I would think about selling half of my position and use the other half to ride the trend.

Re: OM - Omico

That's why subjective ang charting. What one sees is not necessarily the same thing another sees.

Re: OM - Omico

Zotium: although I may not fully agree with your opinion about the volume being substantial during the correction as a bearish signal, I absolutelty do agree with your technical trading opinion of limiting one's exposure to this till the trend becomes clearer. Obviously this issue is moving sideways and the risk could be quite high considering the volatility of its movement. Good point! At the end of the day, its all about capital preservation. Pure objectivit and no attachment. Thanks for reminding us. :)

Omico doubles capital to P2B to fund projects
By Zinnia B. Dela Peña
The Philippine Star 03/21/2007

Listed mining and property firm Omico Corp. is doubling its capital stock to P2 billion to fund the acquisition of additional mining claims, exploration activities and real estate development projects.

Omico president and chief executive officer Tommy Tia said the company will undertake a stock rights offering to allow it to increase its capitalization which now stands at P1 billion. The firm, he said, is hoping to raise about P262 million from the proposed stock rights issue which was approved by its board of directors Tuesday.

Tia said shareholders can subscribe to one share for every three shares held as of a record date yet to be set by the company. The shares have a par value of one centavo.

Omico stocks closed at 1.9 centavos yesterday from 1.8 centavos last Monday.

As a sweetener, the company will give one free warrant for every two shares subscribed in the stock right and the grant of stock options to Omico's deserving employees, officers and board members.

sorry for late reply... mali yung disclosure ng PSE it should've been 1:3

yeah, subscription is 1 for every 3 held - kung baliktad (3:1) then mali kasi over na dun sa P2B authorized and approved by the Omico Board.

here is another news on OM from Business World this morning:

Omico will conduct stock rights offer to raise funds for a joint venture with a wholly subsidiary of Canada-based Ivanhoe Mines, Ltd.

Omico is offering approximately 26B shares at offer price of P0.01 per share per Corp Sec Emilio S. Teng.

"We are in the final stages of signing a joint venture with Ivanhoe Philippines. Hopefully within a month's time, we can finalize it."

The companies are eyeing to develop a gold mine in Makawiwili, Benguet.

Mr. Teng said the fresh capital would also be poured into the joint venture as well as other projects, including new mining ventures with prospective partners.

Omico's main business activities are mining exploration and property development.

In uncertain or sideways market with money to hold, I'd bottom pick this stock and buy near support.

In recent months as compared to prior years way back, buyers who accumulate will usually clean up one fluc at one hit without a chance for retail investors to get in.

In a bull market where other stocks are skyrocketing while this is still in consolidation, buying on breakout will be a better strategy as long as you are faster than the rest.

If you believe in this stock and the value it holds in the long run, the current support, consolidation or breakout price whichever you choose to get in will not matter. :wink:

mga gaano pa kaya katagal itong OM bago mag breakout? sa pakiramadam nyo guys? magkakaroon pa ng stock rights offering. May possibility pa kaya malaglag to sa .017? Para sa akin lang kasi dadami yung shares na nasa open market. Parang ok din to trade the range yung half nh position lang. 1 fluc lang since yung price nag lalaro sa .019 .020, bile .019 tapos pila sa .020 pag nabile pila ulit sa .019. yun nga lang may possibility na maiwan pag umakyat na tong OM. Pero since naghihintay naman tayo ng break out medyo ok parin kung sakaling hindi na makabili @ 0.019 edi buy na lang sa break-out. meron ka panaman natitirang half nung position mo. I dont know kung this makes sense. heheheh Pero ask na lang natin mga Professors natin kung ok to. personal ko lang tong opinion.

the symmetrical triangle is a neutral pattern. It "usually" takes a cue from its previous trend for direction. The reason why we recommend buying on the breakout is because the trend is already evident at that state. If there's a question as to whether or not it could also reverse and breakdown instead, the answer is a resounding "yes". It would all depend on your risk management system. But always remember that taking a position within a consolidation is very emotional because of the undergoing battle between the two market forces. You wouldn't worry about the stock rights offering if this issue broke out from its consolidation already right? :D

Guys, if this really is a reversal pattern coming from a bear trend, and that there is a corresponding fundamental cause for its movement, its normal for us to expect a little bit of rough sailing here. Ergo: Mabigat itong aakyat. Most people are making tsupita with this issue kasi they're not yet fully convinced of the ongoing transition from a basura stock to a not so basura :D Remember what happened to WEB. mabigat din siya at first, but when the insiders were done selling, fred went to the moon with it! :D I'm not suggesting throwing all worries and cautions to the wind. Always maintain your cuts just in case it goes haywire. Provided that we're still within technical levels, lets ignore our basic emotions and stick to our trading plans. Lets all help each other here.. afterall... misery loves company :D

Re: OM - Omico

Hey guys! Relax lang. Lets study what just happened. Okay.. there seems to be a lot of selling around .023 which is an established resistance. This is already a technical fact. That allows us now to redraw the resistance line of our area pattern. Now the triangle looks even much better in form. We need to understand the psychology of the market when the price moves sideways. Buyers and sellers would have to face each other off. The sellers HAVE to sell everything first before the price could take off. The real supply line, in my technical opinion is now drawn. I welcome this because the sideways movement is slowly beginning to reveal what it truly is. Our emotions are caught up with this security because we took positions in a sideways trend. Yes.. it is mental torture.. and it is during these times that it is ever so important to look at the bigger picture for guidance. But think about this... If it does breakout topside with this newly drawn pattern, don't you think it would be real strong knowing the fact that the sellers are done? Eh di wala nang kaduda duda. :-)

Those who can't take the heat of the emotional repercussions effected by bottom picking or taking a non-trending position are advised to stay on the side and wait for the confirmation. But for those who enjoy bone chilling and nerve wrecking rides, there's plenty of seats here next to me. :D

Everytime prices consolidate in an area pattern, its a battle between the bulls and the bears. Personally, I'd want the sellers to finish selling. That would include the tsupiteros or noises. Remember what happened to Philweb? The insiders were selling daw... but as soon as they were done selling,...no more supplies! :shock: AS LONG AS THE SUPPORT HOLDS.. that gives the bears a lot to think about, and hope for the bulls.. Kung ito di pa gumalaw....maraming nagsuya na sa kaaantay. Inunahan na ni OPM/B, OV/B (daw, di ko kasi napansin ito).

Lately pati ZIP, MIC & MHI seem more attractive.

Market mover ng OM, your time is NOW!

Fundamental Data:

OMico Corp. Year-on-year growth (2005 and 2006)

Revenue = 84.87%

Profit = 151.50%

A good property and mining stock. ;-)

Hay naku... guys please be patient with this one. Alam naman natin its moving sideways eh. parang wine yan. The sellers have to finish selling muna in order for the trend to resume. Sellers are not yet done kasi nga ang daming nagtsutsupita. Tsupiteros are considered noises in the price action. Discounted na rin yan mga yan when this thing finally moves. Peace and labyu all! :D

One year lock up period until such time Ivanhoe explores and develops the Makawiwili Gold Mine in Benguet... unless of course we become greedier and wait for a much better price 4th quarter December 2008.

PSEi is down roughly 25% from the high in July breaking the 200day MA, a very strong support level, and even breaching the low in March at 2965 level.

Stocks fall 4-8 times faster than it goes up and we all very well know that sentiment reigns supreme.

Now a bottom picker would have the common sense to bottom fish those that are fundamentally sound than those that are totally basura. . . and those with technical discipline would have sold at breach of support waiting to buy back at any valid sign of reversal.

Strategy wise, there is a very big difference between a bottom picker and a momentum trader and ironically a trader can be both.

One final word I'd like to leave behind before I go: OM IS GOLD!!!

DCL #5720: Clarification of news article: "Guevara-Omico break-up..."

This is in reference to the e-mail dated today, September 10, 2007, seeking confirmation/denial of the veracity of the Cocktails column entitled "Guevara-Omico breakup looms" published in the September 10, 2007 issue of the Manila Standard Today regarding the Joint Venture for the development of a mixed-use high-rise condominium complex between Guevara Group and Omico. The column stated in part that: "The joint venture agreement entered into by Omico Corp., Honeycomb Builders, Inc. and Guevent Industrial Development Corp. appears to be headed for a breakup unless Omico complies with an agreement to develop a prime real estate property at the corner of Edsa and Pasong Tamo Extension. Omico, a publicly listed corporation, has not started development on the 2,426 square-meter property contributed by the Guevara family's Honeycomb Builders and Guevent for the venture. xxx" Please be advised that while Omico has in the past received demand and follow-up letters from the Guevara Group, there have been several ensuing meetings between the representatives of the Guevara Group and the Management of Omico regarding the implementation of the Joint Venture Project in Makati. In fact, on the September 06, 2007 Board Meeting, Omico has created a committee to address all remaining issues and details on the Joint Venture Project with the Guevara Group and is looking forward to the commencement of the joint venture project at the soonest possible time.

The Mining Association of British Columbia: Robert Friedland Confirmed to Speak at Vancouver Mining Conference
Inaugural Asia Pacific Forum on Mining and Minerals attracting internationally renowned speakers

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA--(Marketwire - Sept. 26, 2007) - The Mining Association of British Columbia is pleased to announce that Robert M. Friedland, Executive Chairman of Ivanhoe Mines, will be speaking at the Asia Pacific Forum on Mining and Minerals, taking place at the Hyatt Regency Vancouver from September 30 to October 3, 2007. Mr. Friedland will be the keynote luncheon speaker on Monday, October 1.

Robert Friedland is in the vanguard of North American natural-resource sector leaders who have pioneered business links in Greater China and the Asia Pacific region during the past 20 years. One of the mining industry's best-known international financiers, Mr. Friedland is the founder and Executive Chairman of Ivanhoe Mines, a Canadian public company whose shares trade on the New York, NASDAQ and Toronto exchanges.

Mr. Friedland was named the "2006 Mining Person of the Year" by Canada's Northern Miner, a leading industry publication, for his coup in gaining Rio Tinto as a partner for Ivanhoe Mines in Mongolia. The Northern Miner said the partnership was "a defining moment in one of the world's biggest mineral-development success stories of the past decade." It described Mr. Friedland as "a dynamic force for a quarter-century in the minerals industry through a host of private and public-company vehicles."

Mr. Friedland has been associated with resource and technology ventures for more than 20 years. In 1996, he was named Developer of the Year by the Prospectors' and Developers' Association of Canada for his work in establishing and financing companies engaged in mineral exploration and development around the world.

Mr. Friedland is Chairman of Ivanhoe Capital Corporation, his family's private company, specializing in venture capital and project financing from bases in Singapore and Beijing. With his leadership, Ivanhoe executives and affiliated benefiting companies have raised several billion dollars on international capital markets since 1993.

Don't stop posting my dear Master Red Warrior!!!! I do believe you!!! And the charts do confirm it! Although on the intermediate picture, it did break down from a symmetrical triangle, the bigger picture is still a complete trend reversal through a cup and handle. It did support the previous resistance of the pattern now acting as an area of support. Just as long as it holds, I will still be TECHNICALLY hopeful. :D

Although I do respect the expressed sentiment that there are other issues that are currently trending that would yield positive results at this time, this thread was never intended to suggest to anyone to BUY OMICO right NOW! We are all technicians here so we are responsible for our entry and exit points. Timing is of the essence. What this thread is suggesting though is that AS OF THIS TIME, there is a perceived bullishness on the chart of OM through the cup and handle which have broken out already. Recently that neckline was tested to hold and that gives it technical validity( diba its trending na sa longer term? Pero sa intermediate term, tulog pa.) Whatever the underlying fundamental cause is factored into the price.

It is boorish to ignore the technical fact of OM's price movement. The Chartist's MATURITY lies in how one goes through the bigger picture. That is my two cents worth!

MABUHAY SI JACK BLACK!!!!

Ano ngayon? Ngayon, 2 kami ni Sherwin na ayaw ng OM. Kung kumita kayo ni HB dyan, then good for you. Pero more than 9 years ko na sinusumpa yang stock na yan. You, of all people, Dan, know the real reason why I think this stock deserves to be buried 12 feet under.

Bonner, you of all people should know that Prices Discounts Everything! That includes everything that had happened to you in the past with this stock! Hindi ba technicians tayo? When HB initially called my attention to this, it was primarily the technicals that lured me into it. Frankly speaking ang technical trader's approach is a trend following system. After what had happened to you for 9 years in omico, ayaw mo bang bawian to? Don't blame the stock but blame the trader. Kung kumita kami ni HB dito, that's because we never shut the door to the technical possibilities. If we're wrong, then we cut. We won't even feel ashamed or less of who we are if it goes awry. From my trading point of view, that reversal pattern is a risk worth taking and a calculated one at that.

Hindi naman sa ayaw ko sa OM ang gusto ko lang iparating is marami dyang mas magandang pagkakitaan kaysa OM.... Example GEO or maybe NI madami iba dyan heck even PLDT is better.... Now kung may inside info kayo sa OM kaya sobra kayong bullish dyan that is something I don't know kaya di ako as bullish as you guys. Technically naman parang tapos na yung cup and handle kasi ngayon bumalik na sya sa cup price wise....

You're right that we're technicians and that emotions shouldn't be involved here. Pero ibang klaseng betrayal ang nangyari sa akin dito, you can't take it out of my system.

Sherwin is right, there are other stocks to play other than this. We shouldn't be too fixated on this one stock alone.

Pare, gustuhin ko man, ito lang ang stock sa buong PSE na laging kumukulo ang dugo ko. Para di na rin masira ang araw ko, I move on to other things...like NI, or PX, or other fan favorites.

Pagpasyensyahan nyo na ako. Di talaga matanggal sa sistema ko ang galit ko sa OM. Kahit na alam kong iba na ang nagpapagalaw dito, kahit na alam kong iba na ang bosing, it still leaves a very bad taste in my mouth.

Sa madaling salita, trinaidor kami ng market mover ng OM 9 years ago. masaklap dyan, kasama pa namin ang hayop sa same brokerage! Lahat ng tiwala na mabibigay mo sa tao na yun, naglaho ng parang bula.

Kaya ganyan kainit ng dugo ko sa OM, di maaalis sa aking sistema yang hinayupak na stock na yan.

now i know atleast whats the reason kung bakit ganun katindi ang galit ni Boss Yamada sa OM. haay naku, ganyan talaga. ako nga nagpagawa ako ng bahay worth P1.3M naibigay ko na lahat yun pera hindi tinapos ng contractor yun bahay namin. sa madaling salita trinaydor din ako. dko maidemanda, naaawa ako. parang kapatid ang turing ko sa contractor na ito. best friend ko pa, naging best man ko pa sa Wedding namin, naging ninong pa ng panganay ko na anak. tapos ganun ang ginawa sa akin. tinulungan ko na mag loan without interest para matapos nya yun bahay namin, nakuha na nya yun P1.3M nakuha pa nya yun na loan nya tapos iniwan kami. tapos galit pa sa akin yun mother nya, aba sino ang hindi magagalit nyan, tuloy sabi ko kahit sinong Pontius Pilate ang iharap nya sa akin ay hindi ko uurungan. pasensiya na mga bossing out of topic na carried away ako e, yun kami pa rin ang nagpatapos ng bahay namin.

naiintindihan kita Boss Yamada sa nararamdaman mo. pero ngayon kapag nagkikita kami para siyang isang aso na nakakita ng isang Wolf, amoy ko pa lang hindi na mapalagay ang tao na ito, at hindi alam kung ano ang gagawain kapag parating na ako.

Back to OMICO buy tayo lahat kapag breakout na talaga, ha ha ha ha.....joke lang Boss Yamada... just let it go. just keep on keeping on!

What they sow, they will reap naman e, kapag masyado mo inisip yan lalo lang maraming negatives ang lalapit sa iyo. at yun stress level mo masyadong tataas. well tao lang naman tayo kaya hindi natin agad makakalimutan yan maski nga ako hindi ko pa rin makalimutan yun nangyari sa akin kasi that was 5 years ago lang, pero para sa akin past is past. forgetting what was behind and pressed towards what is ahead, yan ang aking laging iniisip kaya kapag naaalala ko very-very light na lang ang effect as in halos wala ng effect sa akin.

OM Warrants - Explanation Needed

Posted by - 2007/10/08 13:24

Guys,

Can you help me understand how these OM Warrants go?

Here is what I know about them:

WARRANT FEATURES:

1. Exercisable price per share of the stock to be acquired from the warrant
- P0.01 per share
2. Conversion ratio of warrant to share of stock - One (1) common share for every warrant held
3. Conversion period - Exercisable within ten (10) working days prior to end of every three (3) months from date of issue of the warrant
4. Warrant expire - Five (5) years from date of issue of the warrant.

Based on what I understand, I can do 2 things with the warrants:

1. Convert to Common OM stock
  - a. When I convert the warrant, I need to pay .01 peso for every warrant. So if I have 6M warrants, I need to pay 60,000 pesos to convert the warrants to common OM stock.
  - b. Conversion is 1 OMW2 : 1 OM
  - c. I can then sell at current OM share price
2. I can sell the OM warrant (OMW2) based on existing market price.

* All these I need to do in 5 years of date of issue.

Are these assumptions correct?

Thx,
Zandro

For the believers check this out:

MONTERO, P.O.; 1976

Report on geological investigation of Omico Mining and Industrial Corporation's Macawiwili Gold Property

As has been noted, the property appears to be promising. The area has apparently favorable geologic setting for gold mineralization. The hydrothermal alterations are very similar to those of the other well known primary gold producing mines in the district.

Metallic Mineral Deposits; Luzon; CAR; Benguet; MP-1588

For the updated geological report... I still need to meet with the geologist.

Good trading day to all.

Not all traders are purist TA Charles. You have to respect that.

TA and FA complement each other too.

If the moderators of this site mandate that, then I have to respect that.

In so doing, all the others that posted fundamental news from newspaper articles would have to stop posting too.

tama si HB. It's up to us to filter out fundamentals if we don't believe in it. we can't help it but there are members who read FA. It's not a sin. It's just up to that person on what they believe in.

Omico Ballad is so sad. How about this one?

OUR OM

Sung to the tune of YOUR LOVE by Alamid

OM's the one that never lets us sleep
To our minds down to our dreams OM touched the sky
OM's the one that we can't wait to see
To hit ceiling a hundred times, we're in ecstasy

Where have all the foreign brokers gone?
Our days are dark without a glimpse of them
But now the MPSA is near we feel complete
With Ivanhoe and Tommy there then we can see...

Our OM is like the sun that lights up our whole world
We feel the gold inside the mine
Our OM is like the river that flows down through our veins
We feel the chill inside

Every time we see a market play
Reminds us of the charts that we've been through
In our minds we can't believe it's true
In our hearts we know that it's T.A.

Possible	617,592	2.28
Potential	5,331,198	1.95
Total/Average	8,919,718	2.02

"Ore reserves of such tonnages and grade are substantial enough to warrant commercial production.

Source: 1996 Annual Report Omico Corporation

My dear traders,

The above represent only 10 locations. There are 119 mining claims covering 837 hectares of property. Auditors will not allow such data in the annual report unless certified by a licensed geologist.

The MPSA which should have taken only 4 1/2-7 months of processing is now in its 8th month. It should be released soon.

For the brave ones, I am reiterating a STRONG SPECULATIVE BUY on OM.

For the conservative, impatient & faint of heart, GO SELL in the next rally.

Short term gains possible for tsupiteros, long term gains for investors highly likely if you have the patience to wait until production.

Trade exceptionally well!
